

James Braid would be proud to be a member of the three golf clubs, of Clyde Coast Golf. He not only designed these courses but was also a leading golfer of his generation.

Some golf clubs lost their way in the eighties and forgot the principles which James Braid upheld. This unassuming man new the value of golf, for its ability, to bring together people, from all walks of life in friendship and competition. His values have been challenged by upwardly mobile ambitions and those who treat the game as a fashion accessory.

The three golf courses adopt James Braid principles and you can be assured of a warm welcome and an enjoyable game of golf.
